The Four-Moment Marketing Audit

Homeowners search in four modes before anyone gets hired: Know, Go, Do, and Buy. Answer all twelve questions honestly for your roofing company. Every "no" is a bucket that is leaking jobs to a competitor.

Search Mode	Your Website	Google Business Profile	Your Reviews
1. Know "How much does a new roof cost?" Researching, weeks out.	☐ Does your site answer what a new roof costs in your market, in plain dollars?	☐ Do you add fresh photos or updates to your profile at least once a month?	☐ Do your reviews describe specific jobs, not just star ratings with no words?
2. Go "Roofing company near me." Needs a short list, close by, now.	☐ Does your site clearly name every town in your service area?	☐ Is your profile complete: right categories, current hours, services, and service area set?	☐ Do you have at least 20 Google reviews? (Nearly half of consumers skip companies below that line.)
3. Do "How do I stop this leak?" Trying to solve or plan a task.	☐ Do you have a separate page for every service you sell?	☐ Is every service you sell listed on your profile, so Google can match you to the task?	☐ Do reviews from the last three months mention the exact services you want more of?
4. Buy "Best roofing company in town." Comparing a shortlist, ready to call.	☐ Can a visitor call you in one tap from every page, and see photos of finished roofs?	☐ Do you respond to every review on your profile, good and bad?	☐ Is your average rating 4.5 stars or better, with a new review inside the last 30 days?

10 to 12 yes: Every mode is answered. Your job now is keeping it that way as competitors wake up.

6 to 9 yes: One or two buckets are leaking. The empty row is the one costing you jobs you never hear about.

0 to 5 yes: You are visible in Buy mode only. Homeowners find your competitors first, in every mode that comes earlier.
